Reality

What we don't tell them

- How would like to spend a minimum of 1 night a week learning the craft
- How would you like to spend 12 hours on the mat being screamed at by fans, coaches & athletes.
- How would you like to blow a call and everyone knows you blew the call and there is nothing you can say except –sorry.
- How would you like the sounds of whistles echoing in your ear
- How would you like to wake up on Sunday morning and hear your knees creak and feel your body ache.
- How would you like to be paid sometime before tax time.
- How would you like to spend more time with other peoples kids than with your own.

Sounds like fun to me!

Why?

- Passion for the sport
- The love of doing something well
- The chance to give back to the sport
- Being around the best kind of people
- The chance to help others become better officials and catch the passion
- Create challenges in your life
- Of course, the money is okay!

Recruiting

California Challenges

- Finding people that fit this model No real natural feeder system established
- Good Old days: wrestle-coach-officiate
- Only eight colleges wrestle in California-down from 20 in mid-70's
- Only 23 Community College programs in California-down from 60 in mid-70's

Less programs= less educators=less on campus coaches=less influence=less athletes, etc.....

Recruiting

Other ways

- Look for ex-wrestlers who have flexible jobs
 - Educators who get out early afternoon
 - Parents who have schedules that allow them to travel
- Look to other sports official groups, such as football for officials who have wrestled
- Recruit Community College wrestlers (their season ends in December in California)
- Banners and flyers in gym to advertise the need for officials

Recruiting

- Recruit at 4-yr school officiating classes.
- Volunteer to make presentation at local colleges in officiating classes
- Go to job fairs in conjunction with other sports groups
- Mandate existing officials to bring a new person every year and reduce dues.

Recruiting

Existing officials are the best recruiters/salesman

Main reason to create a system that effectively trains and retains officials

Retaining Officials

- Time is more valuable than money
- So make the mat time more valuable than the money and time
- Provide a positive experience, filled with useful training, collegial experiences and developing the pride of providing a good service.

Protect the Young Officials

- 1st & 2nd year officials
 - Provide special training sessions
 - Counsel coaches on dealing with rookie officials- emphasis on teaching and learning.
 - Pair with veterans and split dual meet assignments.
 - Send a master veteran to lower level tournaments as a mentoring working official.
 - Don't send a to assignment they are not ready for.
- If not protected they will be gone
- Be cognizant when correcting young officials-remember how would you liked to have been treated when you made mistakes. (and still protect the athletes)

Involve your Master Officials

- Have your top officials teach portions of the classes.
 - Provides credibility for them and the association
 - The more they teach, the more they learn

Training System

- Provide different levels of teaching that address the veterans and rookies
- Make it interesting and up-to-date
- Mandate minimum training hours for all officials
- Mandate minimum written and mat work prior to season.
- Emphasize that this is profession, not a time to socialize and hang with the boys

Provide Opportunities

- All officials want to do a good job (no hiding in wrestling)
- All officials want to have a chance to be part of the upward mobility system
- Need to eliminate the “Good Old Boy” perception that exists in all associations,
- Need to instill in every official the realization that if they work hard and get the right experiences can attain their goals

Provide Opportunities

- Develop an honest, fair and positive evaluation system

California models NCAA D-1 evaluation model (Lynn Dyche is our head official and NCAA Head Evaluator)

1 State meet=10 mats=20 officials all evaluated (10 evaluators) and ranked-use this same evaluation system when they go back to their CIF Sections

Use the evaluations to drive assignments

- Assign fairly and equitably within abilities

Recognition

- Develop an in season recognition system within group.
 - “Official” of the Tournament, etc.
 - Develop an end of year recognition system:
 - Most improved
 - Most reliable
 - Ugliest
 - Best call of the year
 - Etc. (use your imagination)

Emphasize fun here

Pay Scale

- Develop a pay scale that reflects respect for the time and preparation of officials.
- Develop a mat to official ratio so that the official is not overloaded (3 officials to 2 mats is standard)
- Varsity pay scale for tournament ranges from $22 to $26 per hour around the state.

Conclusion

- Train to retain and instill professionalism
- Protect young officials
- Develop opportunities
- Develop evaluation system
- Develop recognition system
- Develop respectful pay scale

Make the mat experience more valuable than the time and money
